BNP Paribas Bank has been cooperating with Executive Communication for two years, in the spirit of consistently developping its executive staff. Language Training with Executive Communication covers a wide spectrum of languages - english, french, spanish, german and russian. The tutors there are distinguished for their knowledge and professionalism, and the teaching method has been adjusted to suit the needs of each individual trainee.

The company's general management are very organized and are always open to discussions about customizing training progress, whilst the regular bi-annual progress reports provide very detailed information about the level of the trainees and their progress in lessons.
